President's Message

Greetings everyone...

Dear IDA Family...

We are excited to host the Bollywood Musical event "Black & White II, The Golden era of Hindi Cinema" on September 30th at Stafford Civic Center. This show is conceptualized and directed by Milind Oak and has earned a great number of accolades across the world. It is a collage of performances on screen and stage aided by mega screen audiovisuals. The presentation format is reminiscent of a stage musical where the singers "act" the characters.

The musical event will begin with a dinner (6 to 7:30 PM) followed by an entertaining program (8 to 10:30 PM).

Please watch the following representative clips of the show on YouTube:

If you would like to get tickets, tables, or individual chair, please visit IDAHOUSTON.ORG or Humtumdesi.com. If you would like to mail a check made out to IDA, please send it to IDA Houston, ATTN: Atasu Nayak, 4111 Ruskin street, Houston, Texas 77005.

India Ministry of Culture: Anegundi

An ancient fortified village that is said to be older than Hampi, Anegundi retains its rustic charms. Standing on the banks of River Tungabhadra, opposite Hampi, legend says that this is the place where elephants of the Vijayanagara empire's army were kept.

Thus it's name Anegundi, which means elephant pit in Kannada. Anegundi is also said to have been a part of Kishkindha, the mythical kingdom of monkey kings Bali and Sugreva, mentioned in the epic Ramayana. Locals say that this settlement is over 3,000 years old, a fact that may be proven by the existence of Maurya Mane (Moremane) and Onake Kindi, two prehistoric era clusters. According to geologists, this place is around four billion years old. At Maurya Mane, one can see evidence of prehistoric human settlements, like cave paintings, while rock paintings can be seen in Onake Kindi. Apart from these archaeological sites, the Anegundi Fort is another popular tourist attraction. With many gates, several tombs and two temples - Ganesha Cave Temple and Durga Temple - this sprawling fort once used to guard the region.
